

A large gray rectangular area containing several horizontal white lines. One of these lines is highlighted with a black border, indicating it is the active input field. The lines are spaced evenly, suggesting a list or a series of input fields.