

A large gray rectangular area containing several horizontal lines, likely representing a redacted section or a placeholder for content. The lines are white and span most of the width of the gray area.